Director, Commons

About Me:

I have worked in the assisted living field for over 20 years and currently serve as the Director at The Commons. Throughout my time here, I've had the opportunity to grow through several roles, from QMAP and Supervisor to Care Manager, Care Department Manager, Assistant Director, and now Director. Prior to joining The Commons, I gained experience in a variety of settings including assisted living communities, restaurants, and even as a veterinary technician all on the Front Range. I'm passionate about supporting others in their professional growth, fostering strong teams, and ensuring that residents receive compassionate, high-quality care. Mentorship is especially meaningful to me because I've benefited from great mentors myself, and I enjoy helping others find confidence and success in their own paths.

Hobbies and Interests

I have two children that occupy most of my time outside of work. My daughter plays basketball and volleyball, so I spend a lot of time at practices, games, and traveling for tournaments. My son is currently enrolled in the culinary program at CMU, so I am also enjoying trying his new recipes. Spending time with my family, outside when possible, is how I would say I recharge. Coffee also helps.

Fun Facts

I am a huge animal lover. I grew up spending the summers helping on my uncle's cattle ranch which sparked my love of animals. I thought I wanted to be a large animal vet for most of my childhood. Once I became a vet tech I quickly realized that was not the path I wanted to take. So now I just care for my household pets which include 3 dogs, 3 jumping spiders, and 1 axolotl.

Why I Mentor:

For me, mentoring is about connection and progress. I love getting to know people as individuals, understanding what drives them, and helping them navigate challenges. It's fulfilling to be part of someone's growth journey, especially when I can offer perspective that helps them move forward with confidence and purpose. Seeing someone gain clarity, take action, improve, and grow is incredibly rewarding to me.
